Interis Risk Services:

Risk Assessments

An organization's ability to manage risk is predicated on understanding risks and their potential impact on strategic and operational objectives. Whether the organization is implementing Enterprise Risk Management, designing a risk-based audit plan, or simply seeking to better understand its risk landscape, Interis has the expertise to introduce methodical risk management programs and practices. Interis is a leader in providing risk services that can assess each organization's unique risk profile, the effectiveness of current risk management practices, and the resulting residual risk exposure. Interis risk professionals work closely with executives and managers to devise constructive strategies that synchronize the organization's risk exposure to its risk appetite.

Risk Assessments often begin with the development of a Corporate Risk Profile. This practice is an effective way to introduce Integrated Risk Management (IRM) into corporate, departmental and business line processes. Using our Risk Factor Analysis tool to examine the factors that drive risk in the organization, Interis produces a Corporate Risk Profile that provides a foundation upon which an organization can build and institutionalize its IRM program.

Interis can also assist your organisation in developing the tools and programs which can take risk management to the next level. By leveraging the risk assessment, we can assist your organisation in monitoring and, when required, adjusting action plans to increase your abilities to achieve your strategic objectives.

Integrated/Enterprise Risk Management (IRM)

Interis has developed a holistic approach to risk management: senior management and governance committees are provided with a strategic, enterprise-wide view of the organization's risk profile so they can understand how those risks influence the ability to achieve the organization's goals. Organizations can then implement and monitor the necessary strategies to alleviate and effectively manage these risks.

Capability Enhancement Service

Implementing integrated risk management can be a significant effort with considerable investment. To avoid costly derailments, organizations need a practical implementation strategy and a solid support capability. Interis' services encompass the development of strategies, frameworks and tools – as well as capacity building – to create a sustainable, efficient, and value-added IRM regime. Interis provides a comprehensive suite of customized training to each client using the most appropriate delivery methods and the client's existing standards for training and development. Our goal is to leave each client with enhanced abilities and a measurable risk management framework.

Operational and Project Risk Management

Complex and critical projects, sudden changes in direction, serious investment decisions – the drivers of risk of both operational and project risk can influence events that quickly turn a smoothly functioning organization towards reactive inefficiency and confusion. Interis Operational and Project Risk Management services deliver implementation and execution of formal risk management practices directly into an organization. Whether the client needs an experienced project risk coordinator or a senior project manager to focus the risk lense on an area of concern, Interis professionals can bring their expertise directly and seamlessly to the core team. Interis consultants make a difference, supplementing the current team, and focusing on leaving behind improved performance, skills, and capabilities. It's a different style of consulting – a style that comes from knowing what works.

Contractual Risk Strategy

In today's dynamic, global market, large and small organizations enter into substantive business arrangements with vendors and business partners. Often, the organization must assess, analyze, and mitigate contract-related risks. Often the expertise of Interis is engaged to provide independent, third-party advice based on industry accepted practices. Interis helps the organization select appropriate contractual terms and conditions that reflect the real risk exposure in the deal. The end result – improved contractual negotiations, reasonable limits on vendor liability, and faster completion of complex contracts. Interis understands risk.
